Application Analyst Systems Analyst 1

Alberta Finance and Enterprise, Edmonton - Are you looking to join a small development team where the focus is on quality? Are you interested in Agile, .NET, C#, object oriented programming, layered architectures, domain driven design, and web development? Does being a member of a team that will re-write all the department applications appeal to you?

As a member of our development team you will be involved in system development, support and maintenance, documentation, and training for department applications. We are looking for a well rounded individual that has the following qualities:

- Has strong problem solving skills, trouble shooting skills, and can learn new concepts on their own
- Is capable of communicating effectively with non-technical end users
- Enjoys object oriented programming
- Is self motivated
- Enjoys working alone or in a team environment
- Is focused on quality

Qualifications: University degree in a related field such as computing science. Experience in Agile development, .NET, C#, object oriented programming, layered architectures, domain driven design and web development would be considered an asset. Equivalencies will be considered.

NOTE: Final candidates will be asked to undergo a security screening.
